The Toronto Debating Society is a non-profit public community organization; the first and oldest non-university debating club in Toronto.

Welcome to the Toronto Debating Society

- Debating will help you refine your persuasive speaking skills - a talent that will benefit other aspects of your life.
- As members of the Toronto Debating Society, we enjoy refining our persuasive speaking skills and guests enjoy watching our entertaining, lively and heated debates on a variety of topics.

Participation

- As a member, you will have the added benefit of participating in the debate itself or any number of supporting roles.
- We foster an environment of fun and comradery! Members can participate to any degree they wish. The annual membership fee is $65. ($35 students). Guest attendance is always free!

Motion / Resolution

- The Toronto Debating society follows parliamentary debate procedures. This means that we behave as though we are in a house of commons where the side in favour of the motion is the "government."
- The question at hand in a debate is a "motion" or "resolution." For example, "be it resolved that Canadians should drive on the left."
- It is the role of the government to define the terms in the resolution which require interpretation. For example, does "Canadians" mean only Canadian citizens? Or would it be anyone driving in Canada?
 - If the government fails to define something, it could leave the door open to the opposition.

Persuasive Arguments

A persuasive debater's arguments will be:

- Relevant to the issues of the debate; on point and not caught up in unnecessary or irrelevant details.
- Developed logically. This is in order to be clear and well reasoned; therefore plausible. The conclusion of all arguments should support the member's case.
- Consistent across all subject matter. Debaters should ensure their arguments are not contradictory and are compatible with their teammate.

The Prime Minister (PM)

- The PM works with their teammate to define the terms of the resolution and introduces the main arguments and supporting evidence in favour of it.
- The case is made up of arguments to further his/her case to persuade the audience and the adjudicator of his/her point of view.

Leader of the Opposition (LO)

- The LO refutes the case presented by the Government and presents arguments and evidence to support their own position.
- The government's case may be refuted through a combination of:
 - Evidence: cast doubt on the validity of the Government's supporting examples;
 - Argument: the thrust of the case itself by presenting contrasting examples of his/her own; or
 - Premise: the philosophical foundation upon which the case is built.

Member of the Government (MG)

- The MG must refute the arguments brought forward by the LO, which again may be argued at the level of evidence, argument or premise.
- Elements used in this refutation must be consistent with the rest of the Government's case.
- The bulk of the MG's speech should be devoted to expanding the case presented by the PM.

Member of the Opposition (MO)

- The MO must refute the government's case and further develop the arguments put forward by the LO.
- As before, elements used in this refutation must be consistent with the rest of the Opposition's case.

Victory / Scoring

- The Adjudicator will score a debate based on five key elements: argument, content (evidence), rebuttal/refutation, style & rhetoric, and teamwork.
- Audience members should vote for the most persuasive team regardless of their personal opinions on the topic. "Who won the debate?"
- It is quite possible to retain the support of the popular opinion and yet still "lose the debate" in the eyes of the adjudicator.
